ABOUT THE JOURNAL

The Journal of Law and Public Policy is an open access journal with a double-blind peer review process that publishes original scholarship on the interface between law and public policy at the national, regional, and international levels. Contributions that examine the process of public interest decision making are especially welcomed. Articles must advance interdisciplinarity in the field of law and justice with a strong focus on socio-economic and political contexts. In addition to academic quality, the journal encourages writing that is accessible to a wide range of readers such as policymakers, researchers, faculty, and students of law and public policy across the world. We welcome empirical, historical, and comparative analyses that are grounded in theoretical debates.

Founded in 2014, the Journal of Law and Public Policy is published twice a year by the National Law School of India University, Bengaluru. This includes one general issue and one theme-based issue.

TYPE OF SUBMISSIONS

- RESEARCH ARTICLES
6,000–8,000 words (flexible in exceptional cases)
- LEGISLATIVE NOTES/CASE COMMENTS
2,000–4,000 words

- BOOK REVIEWS
1,000–2,000 words

DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION

JLPP publishes two issues a year, one general issue and one special issue. For general issues, papers can be submitted any time of the year. You will receive initial feedback within a week of submission. For special issues, submission dates vary; please consult the special issue call on the journal website for submission guidelines and timelines.

HOW TO SUBMIT

For research articles, authors are requested to submit their manuscript electronically to the journal's online submission system. For Legislative Notes/Case Comments and Book Reviews, please see the respective guidelines on the Submission Guidelines page before proceeding. For all categories of articles, authors are also requested to go through the General Submission Guidelines and the Style Guidelines before submitting.

JLPP follows the online-first publication model. This allows completed articles to be published online prior to their inclusion in a final print and online journal issue. This significantly reduces the lead time between submission and publication.
